'Passport' offers music, awareness

In their performance of "Passport to Everyday Race," Norma Johnson and Dexter Payne have collaborated to bring a visceral and creative edge to the discussion of Race.

Their performance brings heart and a rich textural depth and provocativeness to the stories of living every day in a racially bound society, according to information from the Brighton Diversity Equity and Inclusivity Council, which will present the event 2-3:30 p.m. Sunday at Barr Lake State Park, 13401 Picadilly Road.

Norma Johnson is a healer, writer, poetic storyteller, performer and facilitator. Her poems are used by educators across the country to arouse consciousness about race, privilege and class. Her powerful collection of Poems for My White Friends stirs hearts and minds, opening space for inquiry, reflection and dialogue about the inevitable role race plays in our society and in our personal lives every day, the news release stated.

Dexter Payne is a well-traveled

Funeral notices

Helen Alvarado Cardenas, 86, of Brighton, died Sept. 16. She was born in Erie to Pascual and Dolores Alvarado. In the spring of 1953, Helen met Antonio Cardenas and they were married in October that same year in Sydney, Neb. Life with their four children was a whole new journey. Over the years, they had many proud moments watching their children grow, learn, graduate, marry and have children of their own. Becoming grandparents and great-grandparents proved to be their greatest joy. Helen was a member of St. William Catholic Church Holy Family for most of her life. She was preceded in death by her husband, Antonio Cardenas; sisters Dolores Sanchez and Estella Cardenas, and her brother Pascual Alvarado Jr. Survivors include her four children Antonio (Lillian), Alma (Richard), Annette (Manuel), and George; seven grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren; three sisters, and three brothers. Viewing, 6 p.m. today at St. William Catholic Church, 1025 Fulton Ave., Fort Lupton, followed by a Rosary at 7 p.m. Funeral services, 11 a.m. Wednesday at St. William Catholic Church; burial at Hillside Cemetery, Fort Lupton, will immediately follow. Tamara Kay Bowles (Osborn), 59, of Thornton, died Sept. 17 at St. Anthony Central surrounded by her children. She was born in Denver to Carolyn Stewart and Thomas Osborn. She grew up in Denver and graduated from Northglenn High School. She married John Bowles and they had two children. Tamara and John owned an insurance company in Brighton where they were agents for several years. Tamara enjoyed time with her kids, grandkids, and family members.

She also enjoyed time over the years at the family lake house, and she loved traveling. Survivors include her children Sarah Hasebrook of Thornton, and Max (Taylor) Bowles of Monument; sisters Sheryl Shariat of Reunion, Holly Diggins of Thornton; and three grandchildren Caitlyn, Jaxon and Kali. Tamara is preceded in death by her husband John, and her brother Dean. Memorial service, 2 p.m. Oct. 5 at Tabor-Rice Funeral Home. Full obit Tabor-Rice player of clarinets and saxophones, a winner at the International Blues Challenge in Memphis, and a finalist in the DownBeat Readers Poll. He was a guest performer with the Lionel Young Band at the 2016 Brighton Blues Blast.

From the blues to a thirst for music of many cultures, his current co-creation with Norma brings him full circle to go beyond the American standard of tasting the fruits of black culture, to now nurture the conversation about whiteness and privilege in America, the release stated.

Join the DEI Council Sunday to hear poetic storytelling about living inside of and outside of race, which invites audience participation, shared conversations and interactive, reflective dialogue about everyday race in our lives.

The event is free, but registration is required. Register soon to reserve your seats at Eventbrite.com.
